"From every town they all hurried to the place." In the Gospel it's people hurrying to where they (correctly) guess Jesus is going. But I wonder where people would hurry to today, in our society. Well, to the Euros, of course! But it turns out that the football didn't deliver the ultimate happiness people were yearning for. Where else do people want to hurry to? The shops, holidays, music festivals, night clubs ... Will any of them bring ultimate happiness either?

More deeply in our hearts, many people will be hurrying to meet up with family, relations and friends. It's one of the joys of holiday time. This is an authentic yearning of the human heart and does indeed lead to genuine and holy happiness. We are created to give and receive love. There are three things that last, St Paul teaches us (1 Cor 13:13), faith, hope and love; and the greatest of these is love. We also hold in our hearts those who do not find genuine love in their families or among friends for whatever reason.

And what about you and me? Where would you like to hurry to? Do we want to hurry anywhere at all—and if not, why not? Do we want to hurry to where Jesus can be found? As we look into our heart and our yearnings, let's not pay attention just to what seems most exciting on the surface, but rather to what we know is most authentically human—which is also what is most authentically Christlike.

God bless, Fr Stephen
